results and categories menu becomes simpler and easier to access.

eBay's classic website has a categories menu to the left whereas ads are in the center of the homepage, and occupy most of the area. There is a search bar and a drop down menu placed at the top of the page. All these items make the website quite cramped up, and one can easily get distracted.

The screenshot displays the eBay Chrome Web App interface. At the top, the browser address bar shows the URL: https://chrome.ebay.com/tablet/#search&keywords\(0\)=cameras&categoryId==cameras&categoryId=). The eBay logo is on the left, and navigation links for 'Sign In', 'Register', and 'My eBay' are in the center. A search bar on the right contains the text 'Search eBay' and a green 'Search' button. Below the navigation bar, there are tabs for 'All items', 'Auctions', and 'Buy It Now'. To the right of these tabs, it says '535,803 results found for cameras'. Below the tabs, there is a 'View as:' section with a list icon and a grid icon, and a 'Sort by:' dropdown menu set to 'Best match'. The main content area shows three search results for cameras. Each result includes a product image, the item title, the seller's name, the purchase option (Buy It Now or Bids), and the price. The first result is a Samsung MV800 MultiView 16.1MP camera by seller '17thstreet...' for $249.00. The second is an Olympus C-3020 Zoom Camera by seller 'discsunli...' for $44.99. The third is a Samsung Digital camera PL series by seller 'doompys' for $99.00. Each result also shows item number, location, shipping cost, and seller ratings.
