

The day to day use of PC always involves some kind of writing. Even though most of it would be short, concise tasks like posting on social media, drafting emails or writing a blog post, there are often times when you find yourself writing longer than usual. There are a ton of applications that meet your word processing needs, but most them create more distraction than simplicity. Today we're presenting to you an app that takes care of this nuisance, and it's appropriately called the ZenPen

. It's a free web based app that lets you write any piece of text you want in a clutter-free environment.

ZenPen is as barebones as an app can get. It flaunts a very minimalistic interface with less features to show off which means there's really nothing much to tweak. It doesn't even let you open documents from your local drive, which makes it essentially just a tool for writing and copy pasting text to another place. But on the bright side, you can easily save anything you write to your computer.

This is ZenPen

A minimalist writing zone, where you can block out all distractions and get to what's important. The writing!

To get started, all you need to do is delete this text (seriously, just highlight it and hit delete), and fill the page with your own fantastic words.

You can use bold, italics, both and urls just by highlighting the text and selecting them from the tiny options box that appears above it.

Quotes are easy to add too!

Happy Typing! ~ Tim Holman (@twholman)

The app focuses on simplicity from the ground up. There's no complex sign up, no confirmation emails to accept and no installation whatsoever. All you need to do is simply erase the default text from ZenPen's home page and bingo, you are all set to write.

While the app is super simple in its design and usage, it still offers standard text editing and formatting features. When you highlight a text snippet, a small floating bar pops up besides the highlighted text giving you the option to insert quotes, add hyperlinks and/or make the text bold or italic.
