

There are many iOS users out there who can't stand the sight of a badge on any of the app icons on their iPhone's Springboard. They just have to oblige to the app's wish, and get rid of the unwanted badge. This is one of the things upon which the Goal Go Flag app is based. The app can be treated as just another reminder/to-do app, but, in fact, it has the potential to do much more for its users. The main objective of Goal Go Flag is to make users adopt the habits of their choice. The app will send you reminders during the day to ensure that you perform the desired task at least once daily during the period you choose to follow the app's habit cycle. It comes with Facebook integration (optional), bringing a social touch to the whole thing, so that you can boast of your achievements to motivate yourself.
